High Intensity Interval Training is alternating bursts of intense activity with intervals of less intense recoveries. With HIIT training you get more fat burning cardiovascular exercise in a shorter period of time than steady pace training. This benefit is due to the use of your “fast twitch” muscle fibers that create power and strength. HIIT is an effective tool for increasing cardiovascular fitness, sculpting your physique and increasing metabolic rate. Not only are you burning more calories but also the effect of intense exertion kicks your body’s repair cycle into hyper drive, which means you burn more fat and calories within the 24 hours after your workout.

The BEST way to track how hard you are working, proper heart rate management, and energy output is by using our MyZone heart rate monitoring system. With the MyZone belt you will know exactly how hard you’re working and effectively recovering. Besides increased workout effectiveness, your training will become a personalized challenge of effort and heart rate control. The mastering of your intervals and recoveries will provide great improvement to your body composition and overall cardiovascular fitness!

The American Journal of Medicine has found that HIIT classes should not be done more than three times per week. HIIT is strenuous exercise and puts a strain on all your body’s systems, joints and muscles. When done excessively and without proper recovery, over-training could lead to a condition called rhabdomyolysis. We recommend that participation in HIIT classes be precluded by at least a modest exercise regimen. However, when heart rate tracking is integrated in the HIIT program, all participants at all levels can achieve benefits and improved fitness.

SCHEDULE EFFECTIVE 8/13/18

Intervals (I) - This profile will require alternate burst of speed and effort with recovery. You will increase your aerobic and anaerobic capacity which will lead to increased stamina and endurance. Be ready for various terrains with lots of intensity. Cadence 80-120 RPM Heart Rate Zones 65-92% of max heart rate

Race Day (RD) - This is the ride you have been preparing for. This is your fitness test or the all out effort race. During this profile expect all terrains, while trying to give your best effort. It will challenge you to take this challenge.

Cadence 60-110 RPM Heart Rate Zones 75-92% of maximum heart rate

TFW—Training for Warriors - The TFW system began as a fitness program originally created for some of the best combat athletes in the world 20 years ago. Today, the training methods of the TFW system can benefit anyone looking to lose fat, build muscle and feel good. Fee based class.

Energy Circuits includes a different dynamic warm-up for 20-22 minutes, followed 5-6 stations each with a different area of work and focus. Each station lasts 30 second and up to 1 minute, switching stations with only 15-30 second rest until all the stations have been completed. After finishing the entire circuit recovery heart rates are monitored to make sure you are working in your right area. Heart Rate Zones 80-92% of maximum heart rate

Hurricane includes a dynamic 20 minute warm-up followed an ANAEROBIC challenge, which will test your ability to work at intensity levels of 80-92% of Max Heart Rate. Training at this level is very challenging, but has been proven in exercise science to burn the most calories, get you in the best shape of your life, reduce body fat and inches. Heart rates are monitored to make sure you are working in your safe target heart range, by watching recovery heart rates.

TABATA BOOTCAMP - This is an 8 week program designed for Women only. These workouts are based on the HIIT principle to get your metabolism started. This HIIT class causes the body to take longer to get to a state of rest so it continues to burn calories (up to 5x more) at a higher rate long after each workout is completed. Fee based class.
